We worked very collaboratively on this project, and the balance of work was pretty evenly distributed. We would both be working on the coding at the same and talked to and worked through everything together. The poster was created by us both on Canva, we were both able to edit it. The videos were also collaborative, Sarah edited one, Caitlin edited the other. We both were uncertain with where to start in terms of coding, so we sat and coded everything together, Caitlin worked with parameters, and Sarah worked with the DataFrame. Everything else was decided after discussion.
